

CARRANZA HAS MADE NO REQUEST AS YET

MEXICAN REBEL LEADER HAS NOT ASKED FOR RECOGNITION OF UNITED STATES.

CAROTHERS WILL STAY

Huerta's Withdrawal of License to American Representative Will Have Little Practical Effect.

Washington, April 6.—No request for recognition of the constitutionalist has been made by General Carranza. President Wilson indicated today that the United States would be guided by developments as they arose in determining such questions. The president, however, spoke of the practice which the American government had followed with respect to Mexico previously, and pointed out that the United States took almost ten years to recognize Porfirio Diaz a half century ago.

Washington, April 6.—The cancellation by the Huerta government of the exequatur of American consular agent George C. Carothers because he sent to Washington dispatches saying the rebels had taken Torreon from the Huerta forces, failed to disturb the state department officials today. The state government still denies Torreon had fallen.

Mr. Carothers obtained his exequatur when he was accredited to the Naderio station at Torreon. Since the outbreak of the Carranza revolution he has had a roving commission in northern Mexico and his exequatur from the Mexican city government has been of little value to him, as all his dealings have been with the constitutionalists.

To Remain With Villa.
It is the intention of the American government to keep Carothers with Villa, and the constitutionalist leaders, and to look after their interests generally. Should Mr. Carothers find it necessary to go into the territory controlled by the Huerta government he may not be able to do business with its local authorities, but there is no prospect that he personally will be inconvenienced or prevented from making observations as an official representative. Neither John Lind or William Bayard Hale had an exequatur while in federal territory.

The complaint and answer, in which Mr. Ryan sets forth a general denial of all the allegations, have both been served. Wilkins was injured on Dec. 9 last, and was confined in the hospital for some time. He claims that his condition is such that he may be crippled for the rest of his life. Mason & Spohn of Madison are his attorneys. Thomas S. Nolan is counsel for Ryan.

MICHIGAN TO VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION

Wets Attempting to Re-license Dry Districts and Drys Fight to Make Wet Counties Dry.

Lansing, Mich., April 6.—Voters in twelve Michigan counties today went to the polls to decide the local option issue for a period of four years. A total of 192,639 persons will be effected by the result. In four counties, including Ingham which contains Lansing, the state capital, the anti-saloon forces are attempting to abolish the saloon; in eight counties, the "wet" element is seeking to re-introduce the saloon. Dry counties are those in which the forces are successful in the elections in the counties of Ingham, Arenac, Ogemaw and Roscommon, all of which now are "wet." The population of the dry counties is approximately 75,000. In the counties of Shiawassee, Wexford, Mecosta, Midland, Benzie, Clare, Kalamazoo and Oscoda, now "dry" the liquor forces are attempting to leave the saloon. Legalized "dry" counties had a total of 135 saloons before they were voted "dry." In many cities and villages in the state, municipal elections also are in progress.

The commission is seeking to learn to what extent improvement in industrial relations might be expected from the general adoption of such agreements in other industries. Systematic efforts at peacable settlement of disputes in the coal mining business, the railroads, the clothing industry, the printing trades, the building trades and the molders' trades were planned by the commission as part of its hearings.

"General" Flora Drummond Creates a Scene When Arraigned Before London Magistrate.

London, Eng., April 6.—"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, the militant suffragette, shrieked loudly when she was arraigned today at the police court in connection with the suffragette disturbances at the unionist demonstration in Hyde Park on Saturday. She had to be forcibly removed. She would not allow either the magistrate or the prosecutor to utter an audible word.

"When Mrs. Drummond entered the prisoners' enclosure she shouted at the top of her voice that she would not permit any one but herself to speak because she said the magistrates and the police court were doing the dirty work of Premier Asquith.

She then proceeded to bombard the court with volleys of verbal interjections until she was carried out by wardens.

PRESIDENT HONORED SOCIAL SECRETARY

Warren Young, Uncle of Dr. W. H. Judd of This City, Celebrates Thirty-Third Anniversary.

According to the Washington Times of April 1, President and Mrs. Wilson sent their congratulations and a bouquet of flowers to Warren Young, social secretary at the White House, who is celebrating the thirty-third anniversary as a member of the executive staff.

Mr. Young is a native of Ohio, and formerly lived in the nineteenth congressional district of that state, where President Garfield resided. When Mr. Garfield came to Washington he brought Mr. Young with him as a member of his executive staff. After he was shot the dying president summoned Mr. Young, and the latter remained at the bedside until the end, at Elberon. It was Mr. Young who gave out the bulletin announcing President Garfield's death.

Mr. Young is a wealthy Ohioan. He and his wife, Dr. W. H. Judd of this city, and is always most curious and kind to all Janesville visitors who go to Washington and call at the White House.

Darling, wealthy capitalist, arrested pending a $50,000 suit. According to Mr. Shaw, Darlington is an habitual housebreaker, who took advantage of Mrs. Shaw's youth.

NAVY OFFICERS HIT BY NO LIQUOR RULE

Secretary Daniels' Order Barring Alcohol Drinks from Navy Abolishes "Wine Mess."

Washington, April 6.—Secretary Daniels' order barring the use of alcoholic liquors in the navy, effective after July first, next, was generally discussed in naval and other circles here today. The order, one of the most sweeping ever promulgated by the navy department, not only abolishes the traditional "wine mess" of the officers, but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Surgeon General Braisted recommended it after an exhaustive investigation into the problem.

While debating the order for publication the effect of the order, naval officers privately expressed the belief it may fall of its purpose—to prevent or decrease drunkenness within the navy. In effect the order does not more than abolish the "wine mess." No distilled spirits are sold in the "wine mess," only wine and beer.

The orders were hailed with joy here today for prohibition forces, who declared it will have a great influence in the furtherance of the temperance cause.

When asked today to comment on the order, President Wilson said it was strictly a military matter. It is said that the president was not consulted by Mr. Daniels before he issued the order and no one professes to know whether it had the president's approval.

EXPECT DECISIONS BY SUPREME COURT

Expect Important Decisions, Including Railroad Rate Hearing Today—Hearing Arguments Before Recess.

Washington, April 6.—Its last "stretch" of hearing arguments before final adjournment this year was entered into today by the Supreme Court, which reconvened following a two week's Easter recess. Many important decisions, including the long-awaited railroad rate cases, were expected today from the court. No further recess of the court is planned until May, when it will cease hearing arguments, prepare numerous opinions, hold several whole days "decision days" and adjourn early in June until October.

Several important "original" cases were set for argument today. Chief among them was the Louisiana sugar case, or rel. for Louisiana, including former Senator Bailey of Texas, appeared today to press the state's suit to enjoin administration of the new tariff act removing duty of 20 percent on Cuban sugar. Solicitor General Davis appeared in opposition for the government, which denies that the high court has jurisdiction. Another "original case" ordered presented today was that of Georgia against Tennessee, for rel. for Louisiana, including logging, mining, industrial and other subsidiary "feeder" lines.

Collection of the corporation tax from companies formed to hold and vote stock of mining corporations was in issue in another case set for hearing today in the government suit against the Nipissing Mining Company. Whether such companies are "doing business" and taxable under the law was the question at issue.

NINE WORKMEN DEAD IN GAS EXPLOSION

Accident on Bridge Under Construction Across Mississippi Fatal to Laborers.

Memphis, Tenn., April 6.—Nine men were killed today by a gas explosion in a cession on the new Harahan bridge under construction across the Mississippi river. The men, all of whom were white, it is said, had just gone to work relieving a shift composed of negroes.

JOHN MITCHELL MAKES VERY NOVEL SUGGESTION

Washington, April 6.—The organization of coal mine operation so that the night agone mines was advocated by John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, before the federal commission on industrial relations. He argued that the government should have supervision of such arrangements. Forty per cent of all the coal mined in the United States was wasted because, he said, the operator could not dispose of it at a profit.

The Town Market

The modern successor to the old-fashioned market are the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

They are as much an improvement on the old system as the new columns are an advance over the Town-Crier.

Wise people nowadays consult the advertising in their newspaper before they purchase. It saves time and money.

It is economy and convenience in the best sense of the word. Advertising has become a fixed factor in the science of domestic economy.

UNDERWOOD-HOBSON PRIMARY FIGHT ON National Politics Enter in Nomination Contest Between Two Men For United States Senator.

Birmingham, Ala., April 6.—Not in years has Alabama been so wrought over politics as in the state wide democratic primary elections held today. Interest centered in the contest of Representative Oscar W. Underwood, of Birmingham, democratic floor leader of the national house of representatives, and Representative Richmond Hobson of Greensboro, "hero of Santiago Bay," for the nomination for United States senator to succeed the late Senator Johnston. The nomination is equivalent to election. A full state ticket, from governor down, and representatives in all districts, were to be chosen by the democratic voters today. As a rule the republicans did not figure today. In some districts they "went through the motions." All democratic nominations at stake today however, are equivalent to election at the general election next fall.

ASKS FOR ADOPTION OF HOME RULE BILL

John Redmond, Irish Leader, Urges Adoption of Measure As It Stands—Vote Comes Tonight.

London, Eng., April 6.—"I think there is nothing for the house of commons to do but proceed with the adoption of the home rule for Ireland bill as it stands," said John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists in a final party argument in a second reading of the bill. "The houses vote tonight."

Mr. Redmond pleaded that the present stage of the controversy is so critical that all energy must be devoted to decide a settlement.

Advocates of a coalition are sick and tired of the Irish question. It must be settled here and now."

He was in sympathy with a general proposal for a system of federation but vague talk on the subject, he declared, was mischievous and could not solve the present difficulty.

WORLD'S CHEMISTS MEET AT ANNUAL CONVENTION OPENED AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, April 6.—Fifteen hundred leading chemists from all parts of the world were here today to attend the annual convention of the American Chemical society at the University of Cincinnati. Sessions will continue for four days. The American Chemical society has a long history. It was founded at the unique origin. It was founded at the grave of Joseph Priestley, the discoverer of oxygen and the founder of the science of chemistry. Joseph Priestley was an Englishman by birth. He was ordained to the ministry, but preferred to study chemistry. The story of his discovery of oxygen dates back from his early experiments in a brewery where he had access to what was then known as "fixed air."

COUNTY IS STIRRED BY LICENSE ISSUE

Electors in Janesville, Beloit, Edgerton, Clinton and Town of Plymouth Vote on Prohibition.

Never before in the history of Rock county has the issue of license or no license become so nearly county-wide in its scope as it has during the present campaign. Electors in three of the cities, Janesville, Beloit and Edgerton, in one of the villages, Clinton, and in the town of Plymouth will pass upon the prohibition issue at Tuesday's election. Srenuous campaigns have been conducted by both the wets and the dries in all of the localities.

Plymouth is the only township to vote on the license question. The submission of this issue has become a regular thing in this township, and the wets conduct an annual fight to wrest the locality from the control of the dries. The township has been in the dry column for five or six years.

In the town of Rock, which swung to the wet column several years ago, the license question will not be voted upon, nor in the town of Janesville, which has been warring for the past two years over the issue.

Beloit dries are making their annual campaign for prohibition with the usual vigor. In spite of the fact that license has been submitted to the voters every spring for a dozen years, the Beloit wets have persisted in casting a majority in favor of saloons.

WILL SHOW RETURNS ON SCREEN TUESDAY

Gazette Makes Arrangement to Post Election News as Soon as Received from Throughout Country.

There is so much interest displayed in the results of Tuesday's election, not only in the local contests, but also in the judicial battle as well as the vote on the question of wet or dry throughout the country, that the Gazette has made arrangements to throw on a screen, strung across Milwaukee street, the results as fast as obtained. It is expected that there will also be some results from cities outside of Rock county, where interesting contests are held, including Milwaukee. As the polls in the cities do not close until eight o'clock, it will be considerably after that time before the results are known in Janesville of even the local election.

GIVES ORDERS ON CLOSING SALOONS

Election Law Requires Saloon Keepers to Close on Tuesday, Election Day.

Chief of Police Ensign Ransom gave orders to the saloon keepers that tomorrow, Tuesday, April 7th, all saloons should be closed all day in accordance with the state law. Chief Ransom's orders, which were issued this afternoon, were as follows:

"This is to notify all Janesville place of business must be closed all day tomorrow, election day, in conformity with the statutes. Violators will be prosecuted."

PILE UP QUESTIONS FOR TOWN MEETINGS

HIGHWAY COMMISSION SENDS OUT STATEMENT ANENT GOVERNOR'S REFERENCE.

ROSA SENDS A LETTER

Assemblyman From Southern Wisconsin District Becomes Active in Urging a Special Session.

Electors of Rock county townships will be gasping for breath before they wade through the mass of literature which they are called upon to consider at their town meetings on Tuesday with reference to the calling of a special session of the legislature. In addition to Governor McGovern, referendum in which five questions are submitted with relation to the highway appropriations and the constitutional limitations of the executive on vetoing of the appropriation bill, an addition to Attorney General Owen's resolution for the endorsement of the petition calling for a special session of the state legislature, Assemblyman C. D. Rosa of Beloit has sent a letter to every town clerk in the county in which he analyzes the highway expenditures and urges the townships to endorse the special session call.

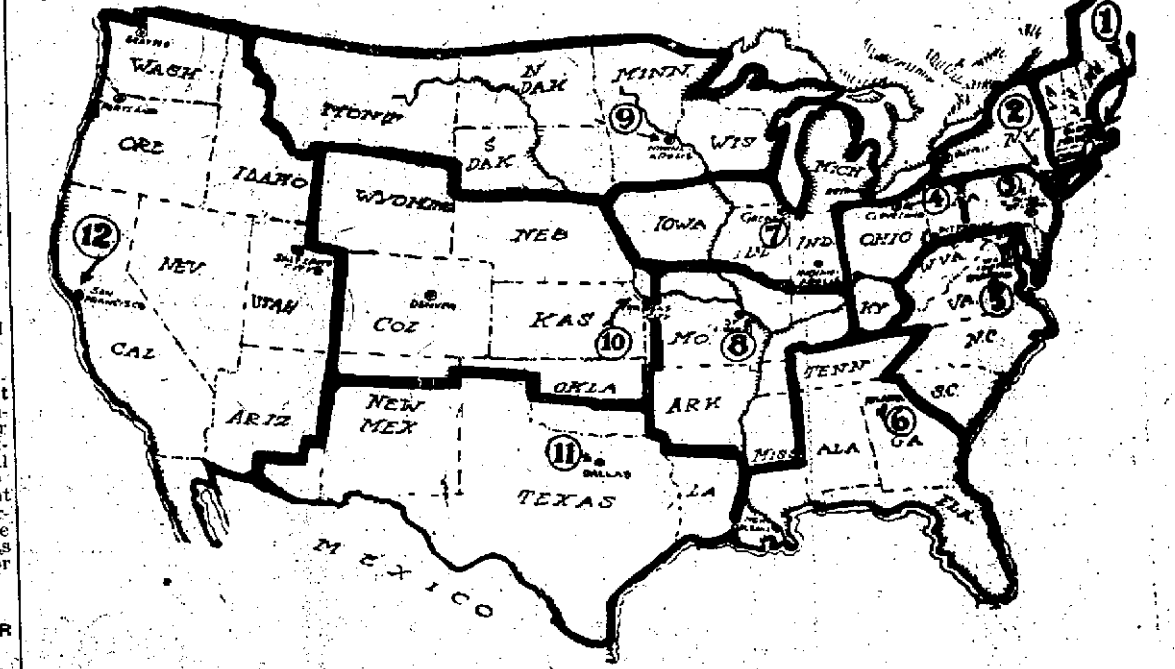

But this is not all. Today the township chairman received letters from the state highway commission enclosing a poster in which is set forth facts with reference to the expenditures for state and county aid highways with the request that the facts be read at the town meetings or that the poster be displayed in a conspicuous place. The tenor of the highway commission's letter is to the effect that the township electors oppose the calling of the special session for the sole purpose of cutting down highway appropriations and indicates a division of sentiment among the officials of the state administration.

It is probable that many of the townships will take no action any of the various matters now in the hands of the town clerks and chairmen for presentation. It is also probable that strong resolutions patterned after those presented at the meeting adopted at the Rock county mass meeting to protest against high taxes and state extravagance will be presented in some of the towns where there is strong sentiment against the activity at Madison in which the effort seems to be to make the farmers the scapegoats for the present political agitation. The whole result will be watched with considerable interest.

FOURTH MURDER TRIAL IS HELD FOR DR. HYDE

Kansas City, April 6.—The fourth trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, accused of murdering Col. Thos. H. Swope, millionaire, was scheduled today. Hyde, accused of murdering several members of the Swope family and near relatives, legatees under Swope's will, was found guilty at his first trial and sentenced for life. He was granted a new trial but a third one was necessary when a juror fled the jury room. The third trial resulted in disagreement. Throughout the case Hyde's wife, a niece of Swope, has stood by him, though her mother has bitterly fought Hyde.

TO CLOSE READING OF "TRUTH" TONIGHT

Cast Are Ready to Take Up Climax Of Great Production Before Drama Club This Evening.

The program for the dramatic club tonight will be exceedingly interesting from start to finish. For the first time since the organization of the club, there will be no readings, but the entire time will be taken up in studying, critiquing and reading the last two acts of Clyde Fitch's production, "The Truth."

The first number will be the life of Clyde Fitch, by Miss Rosemary Knight. The reading of the third and fourth acts will then be read by the cast that has performed on previous occasions reading this same play. Considerable time has been spent during the past week by the members of the cast, and they are confident that they can give the club good characterizations of the parts involved.

Following the reading of the play, a general discussion will take place. In this discussion, the members will argue on the merits of "Truth" and also enact some measure by which the expenses of the club might be satisfactorily covered. It is the desire of the majority of the members to have some big event close to the first year's work of the club, and circulating rumors, are to the effect that the play, "Truth," would be an ideal play to present at the Myers theatre some time in May. It is understood that many of Janesville's citizens are anxious to know just what the progress of the club is, and the members of the club are just as anxious to satisfy them that the Janesville organization is both instructive and a necessity to the city.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

If Janesville is voted dry on April 7 Janesville people can journey south of the city limits and get all the liquor they want, and the chances are that this little place will take Janesville business down there and outside of police protection. Perhaps there will be quarrels and fights of every nature, and make it very inconvenient for police protection. Janesville would get more advertisement out of this because they would say that the participants were all from Janesville. This dry movement puts me in mind of certain people who are not satisfied with orderly conditions but want to go to extremes with the chances that conditions would be worse.

In the state of Alabama the fight is on with Representative Underwood, chairman of the house of congress, on the wet side of the issue, who was chosen chairman of the house of representatives by a majority of the representatives from the house. Mr. Underwood sees there is danger to the state of Alabama if it is voted dry, and does not believe in it unless it were a national issue so every state in the Union would be placed on the same basis. Friday's Record Herald prints that sentiment is in favor of the wet side; everybody down there are wearing Underwood buttons. The men behind bringing up the proposition to vote the city of Janesville dry have not got enough business of their own to finance, so they think they will disturb others that have business to finance. Don't you think these men, if they have occupations or business to tend to, that they would put their time to that particular business so as to become better fitted for it. If everybody would do this in the town Janesville would grow, with everybody working together to accomplish something. If they want to do anything let them put their time to bringing it to a national issue, where every American side by side, city by city, state by state, would be placed on the same basis.

MILES SAUNDERS.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIRST WARD.

In connection with the recent action of the county board in voting to improve a portion of the street in the city of Edgerton, I wish to call the attention of the voters of the first ward to a few facts.

In the first place, the highway law as passed by the legislature provides that upon filing with the county clerk such a petition as the city of Edgerton filed, the board must appropriate a like amount of money for highway purposes. In case the board refused to act it could be compelled to do so by a legal proceeding similar to that by which the county has recently forced the state treasurer to pay to the county money which he had withheld. In such an action, the county would have to pay the costs.

In the second place Rock county has been taxed by the state and has contributed a large share to a $300,000 state appropriation for highway purposes. In case the towns, cities and villages in Rock county do not apply for state aid the money contributed by Rock county to this fund would go to build highways in northern counties which have contributed a smaller amount to this heavy appropriation. In other words, Rock county can not have the benefit of the money it contributed to the state fund unless these petitions to the county board are granted.

When the request from Edgerton came up it was passed—by a vote of 28 to 9. I voted in its favor, believing that it was better to expend a part of the money the county was taxed for at home than in other counties. STEWART B. HEDDLES.

LIQUOR TACTICS

"A brewery wagon was taken into Rockford, loaded with kegs, the wagon bearing a number, they photographed it on the streets of Rockford, horses, driver, kegs and all. Then they painted out the number and painted on another number, changed the horses, changed the driver and photographed it in another street setting, in this way they took several pictures of the same wagon with the same empty kegs and they exhibited those pictures in other cities as an every day scene in 'Dry Rockford' showing the 'failure' of the dry town. But falsehood cannot triumph."

The above is taken from an editorial published in one of our leading state papers.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday. Probably a snow storm. Colder tonight. Fresh to strong northerly breeze.

ELECTION DAY.

Tomorrow is election day. Voters are expected to cast their ballot based upon their individual decisions as to the merits of the candidates or the issues at stake. Paramount in Janesville is the issue of license or no license. Skillful arguments have been introduced on both sides to show the great benefit to Janesville as a city, to mankind in general, by the abolition of the saloon, and by the opposition to show that such a step would be detrimental to the business interests of the city. It is a question of principle versus dollars and cents. Prohibition never absolutely prohibits, but is a fair step toward that end. The fight has been a strenuous one and the result tomorrow night will be watched with interest.

The contest for city commissioner has also taken on additional interest these past few days. Seeking re-election is a man who has had training of two years in the position he asks the voters to elect him to, a former college student, a former alderman under the old method of handling city business, honored in other ways by fellow citizens. Opposed to him is a young man whose education has been obtained in the world of hard knocks, who has worked as a day laborer on the streets and has risen by his own endeavor to the ownership of a good business. One man is backed by the men who have for some time past handled city affairs; the other seeks his followers where he may, among the young men, the men he can convince by his open arguments. It promises to develop into an interesting situation before the polls close tomorrow night and the moral effect upon the city can not be overlooked by a victory for one or the other. The man to be elected is the one who will seek the enforcement of the law.

Throughout the county the question of selection of a judge to fill the office made vacant by the retirement of Judge Field, who was appointed pro tempore judge, an office which he was elected to, at the death of the late Judge Sale, Harry L. Maxfield was appointed by Governor McGovern to fill the unexpired term. Judge Maxfield seeks election, basing his claims upon his official record as judge since taking up the duties, and has many friends throughout the county who approve of his actions. Opposing him are Edwin F. Carpenter and Charles Lange. Mr. Carpenter is an attorney of forty years standing in Rock county, a brother of the late Matthew Hale Carpenter, for many years United States senator from Wisconsin, and a circuit court commissioner for many years. He asks for the office on his record as an attorney. Mr. Carpenter has many friends among the attorneys who would be glad to see him elected and he was one of the unsuccessful aspirants for the office at the time Judge Maxfield was named, having been backed for the position by a majority of the county board. Charles Lange, the third of the aspirants for the office, is also a Janesville attorney. For many years he has been justice of the peace, holding one of the two courts in the city, has sat in Judge Field's court during the absence of that judge at various times and is backed by a strong coterie of friends and many lawyers. He has been closely identified with the LaFollette wing of the republican party and was also a candidate for the appointment to the judgeship when Maxfield was named by McGovern.

This fight is really of more county interest than the contest of whether Janesville, Beloit, Clinton and Edgerton go dry or not. If the question of no-license should win in any or all of these cities, it would mean increased activity in court circles for some time, until the illicit liquor dealers were rounded up by the authorities and given substantial sentences. The new state commitment law also plays an important part in the election. Maxfield has enforced it rigidly and as a consequence the usual grind of old offenders is lessened. However, it is obligatory upon all judges to use this law, with their own discretion, and consequently it does not matter much which one is elected relative to its enforcement. The outcome is going to be watched with interest.

In the city of Janesville there are but two other contests that are attracting any particular attention. That of J. T. Hooper, who at the earnest solicitation of his friends seeks election as school commissioner at-large, before the regular session; why not make the reductions then? To call our present, break-crazed legislature together now, will open new avenues for more costly freak measures. Perhaps the special session may even pass the governor's expensive do-no-good-market commission measure. What aid may we expect from the same old "gang?"

The harm has been done, now. No material cuts can now be made. The call for an expression as to a special session is merely a political dodge of the afraid-of-the-people politicians who see in a special meeting a possible chance of setting themselves right with their constituents for their utter extravagance and wanton waste of public money during the present administration.—Racine Journal-News.

However, Tuesday's election tells the tale. It means a wet or dry Janesville; it means Miltonmore or Goodman for councilman and the final count of the vote will tell what we may expect. One thing, however, is urged upon all voters. Go to the polls and register your choice. It is essential that the election represent the full voice of the franchised voters of the city that its result may be effective.

In every voting precinct in the rural districts of the state Tuesday communications of Governor McGovern will be read and action taken thereon. If a special means to make the farmers the "goats" to call it.

After this wet and dry question is settled for the time being by the vote tomorrow it might be well to round up a few of the flagrant violators of the excise law that has been in existence here for some time past. It should be easy enough to get evidence if it is wanted by the authorities.

Wednesday is the day to mark the starting of the boom for the Janesville fair which is going to be held next August and will put Janesville on the map once more. When Janesville starts entertaining the whole country sits up and takes notice and the fair will beat a dozen Fourth of July's all hollow.

Pretty near time to start planting that garden but not quite. The robins are anxious to have work start, but Dame Nature some way or other has not yet made suitable arrangements with her fair daughter Spring just when she would start.

Milwaukee having its troubles with the socialists again and the campaign which closes tonight will be merely a curtain raiser to the activity of tomorrow.

If Janesville goes dry every club that now maintains a buffet will be shut off from the privileges as well as the retail liquor dealers. It is a poor game that does not work both ways.

Why the Farmers Alone? If we are to have an expression on the proposed special session, why limit such expression to the townships? Aren't the cities interested in our high taxes? Aren't the villages interested? Why give the farmers a voice to the exclusion of the city residents? Perhaps the governor counts the farmers his friends. The farmers are thinking for themselves, too, governor.

Why have a special session? What good will it do, aside from the expenditure of several thousand dollars additional from the public purse? The biennial appropriations have already been made; can they be cut at this late day? It is only a few months

THE SEA IS GOING DRY
The following clipping from this morning's Milwaukee Sentinel clearly demonstrates the United States Government's attitude toward the liquor question:

PROHIBITS LIQUOR IN U. S. NAVY
Secretary Daniels Issues Sweeping Order Which Includes Officers and Seamen.
MAKES ONE RULE FOR ALL
Absolute Prohibition Will Prevail on War Vessels After First of July.

Washington, D. C., April 5.—Absolute prohibition will prevail in the United States navy after July 1 next. Secretary Daniels Saturday night made public a sweeping order, which not only will abolish the traditional "wine mess" of the officers, but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

This order, constituting one of the most notable victories ever won by the prohibition forces, was issued upon the recommendation of Surgeon General Braisted. It was brief and to the point.

"The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel, or within any navy yard or station is strictly prohibited and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of this order."

In a statement issued Sunday night Secretary Daniels said: "I am in hearty agreement with the views expressed by the surgeon general in his paper accompanying the recommendation. There should not be on shipboard with reference to intoxicants one rule for officers and another and a different rule for the enlisted personnel."

LET'S LOOK BEFORE WE LEAP

There are today, amongst us, many good men and women who are exhorting the voters of Janesville to vote the saloons out of existence upon purely moral considerations.

In the heat of their enthusiasm these good men and women fail to take into account the economic consequences of their object upon a city like Janesville where both population and industry is at a stand-still.

One of the consequences of the sudden closing down of the saloons would be the uprooting of the cigar industry.

There are interested and employed in the seven Cigar Factories in this city, and about 40 men who represent practically 40 families. These men earn on the average a salary of from $15 to $20 per week which amounts in round figures to about $800 per week. The product turned out by these men, figuring 300 cigars per day per man, would equal a daily product of 12,000 cigars or 72,000 per week. These cigars will average at a fair valuation $40 per thousand or $2880 per week.

The majority of these cigars are sold through the saloons of this city, so if you vote to put the saloon out of business you also vote to put these seven cigar factories out of business which means that the forty families represented by these factories and the pay roll amounting to about $800 per week, will be obliged to go elsewhere.

So let's look before we leap.

By order of Cigar Maker's Local Union 290,
H. G. CHATFIELD, Sec'y.

Personal Wit in Pulpit.
The pulpit is not immune from wit in our own day, but seldom takes the personal form of a certain divine who, preaching a university sermon at Oxford, ended abruptly by remarking that he "saw it was time to shut his book because the doctor's men had now come, wiping their beards, from the alghouse," referring thus to the custom of the mace bearers, who were wont to repair to a neighboring public house during the preaching and returning only when they thought it was nearly over.

Trees and Lightning.
The electrical resistance of trees is quite great, a quality which protects them to a considerable degree from lightning stroke. This resistance varies greatly with the character of the tissues and also with the temperature. This fact results in an annual and daily period of resistance. The cambium layer shows the least electrical resistance, followed by the phloem and sapwood.

LOSS OF APPETITE IN THE SPRING

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, vigor or tone, which is a more serious loss. It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what they need for the proper performance of their functions.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. It makes the rich red blood your whole system demands. It is not simply a spring medicine—but it is the best spring medicine.

ELECTION NOTICE

OFFICE OF COUNTY CLERK, March 24, 1914.

Notice is hereby given that a judicial and county school board of education election is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock, on the 7th day of April, 1914, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The name of the candidate for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given opposite the title of the office and under the appropriate designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for. If a voter wishes to vote for some of the candidates of different political parties, he should make a cross mark under the name of each candidate he desires to vote for, or at any place within the space in which the name is printed. If he wishes to vote for a person for a certain office, whose name is not on the ballot, he must write the name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. The ballot should not be marked in any other manner.

If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box and hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example, as follows:

TO THE VOTERS of ROCK COUNTY

I Desire To State Briefly A Number Of Reasons Why I Should Be Elected To Succeed Myself As Municipal Judge

All drunks and vagrants that are brought before the Municipal Court, since 1881 could have have been sentenced under Sections 1561 and 4738, under which the punishment for those offenses are from a day to one year in the County Jail, or not more than three years in the Penitentiary.

This law has not been changed in any way by the law that is known as the "Commitment Law," which went into effect on the 10th day of July, 1913. The records will show that I have enforced this law to the benefit of the drunks and vagrants as well as the public at large.

The Commitment Law only effects the sheriff, as it states that all prisoners committed to the County Jail in counties having no work house, can be hired out by the sheriff.

From the 10th day of July, 1913, when the Commitment Law went into effect, until September 8th, 1913, when I assumed the duties of my office, the prisoners were sent to the County Jail under the city ordinances and the sheriff could not hire them out to work.

Since September 8th, 1913, there has been earned by the prisoners something like $4,200.00, which has been turned over to the county and to the dependents of these prisoners.

Rock county is thus far the only one in the state that has made a complete success of the enforcement of the law. Sheriff Whipple and myself have worked hand in hand in the enforcement of the law.

In Wisconsin the principle of a non-partisan judiciary is firmly established and the principle is so well grounded with the voters of the state that the re-election of sitting judges whether they were first elected or appointed, is the Wisconsin way of maintaining a strictly non-partisan judiciary.

The standard for the re-election of a judge is, Has he made good? I believe I have and I ask your consideration of this instead of risking a chance in so important an office.

The Commissioner Is Elected For All the People Not For Any Particular Class

If I had not felt that I am capable to handle the affairs of the Commissioner's office, I would not have accepted nomination.

If my friends had not thought me capable they would not have so loyally supported me at the primaries.

I have always lived in Janesville. Was born here thirty years ago. I have worked here and built up a successful business here. For many years I have been an employer of men. Not one of these men can say that I have not treated them fairly at all times and paid them good wages.

My character has ever been above reproach and I have strived to keep my reputation clean. Have always been a total abstainer as my closest friends will prove and swear to.

When I decided to become a candidate I asked no help from any clique, party or interest. I have not pledged myself in any way except as I am pledging myself now to the voters and citizens of Janesville to work for the best interests of the city, regardless of any person or persons, in case I am elected. I have no cards up my sleeve. All my dealings have been and will be, above board and in full sight. I have never before asked for honors from the voters and it is in all sincerity that I come before you now asking your support.

If elected I pledge myself to the enforcement of the laws and ordinances and the administering of city affairs without fear or favor to any man or interests.

My work under the different street commissioners was in the nature of a sub-contractor and it evolved on me to do considerable of the actual work. My experiences in this work has given me an intimate knowledge of this part of the duties of the office.

To show to what extent I worked for the city in the making and caring for the streets I refer you to the records which will show that I have drawn something like $4,000 for my services. I do not say this in a boasting way but to show that my work covered considerable labor and was no little part of the total amount of labor put on the streets during that time. In addition to city work I have carried on my contract and street work which was entirely outside the city's direct work.

I not only learned the rudiments of the street department but my own business since has made me familiar with practically every street in the city and what it needs.

I am a firm believer that good streets are an asset to any city, but that much money can be wasted in experiments that could have been saved for useful repairs or even rebuilding where repairs would not do.

Janesville should demand a dollar's worth of work for every dollar expended and it would be my endeavor to see that this was accomplished, keeping down the expenses but at the same time giving the city the best streets possible by judicious repairs, careful supervision of the work done. Wasteful expenditures can be avoided and this would be my object if elected. It would mean a reduction of taxes and a business administration in this important branch of city affairs.

Just a Word About Civic Matters

I believe there has been too little attention paid to the civic welfare of the city.

Play grounds and parks, these we need for the people. We have a good start, more should be done as conditions permit. The river is the people's play ground, its beauty, marred by pollution from indiscriminate dumping of everything under the sun, the river banks strewn with refuse so that its appearance is distasteful not only to we, ourselves, but to those who come to Janesville, should be given attention. A sentiment in favor of this and similar matters is aroused now, and by education can be furthered. I am in favor of clean alleys, streets and clean river banks and in the general civic advancement.

The commissioner may be a dead or live asset to the city. He can assist materially in the growth of the city, if he takes a personal interest in its industries. He can become of tremendous value in connection with the furtherance of the city's commercial welfare in not one but a dozen ways. He can assist very strongly in building a desire for better highways into Janesville. IT SHOULD BE HIS DUTY TO CREATE A CONDITION WHICH WILL MEAN BETTER HIGHWAYS TO JANESVILLE CONSISTENT WITH THE MATTER OF THE CITY TAXES.

If elected I shall make such matters a personal piece of business. I fully understand, I believe the responsibilities of the office I am seeking. While the supervision of the streets is an important part of the Commissioner's position, yet the fact that he becomes an ex-officio member of the board of education and a member of other committees, impresses me with the important part the Commissioner must take in the city's government.

Let me say that good judgment or in other words plain common sense is a factor in handling city affairs the same as that of personal business. My personal business has always thrived. I can point with pride at my personal accomplishments in that direction.

There are good men on the school board. I am not an educator, don't lay claim to having had more than a common school education and that priceless additional education which comes with the school of hard knocks.

I can see a hole through a grind stone and can and will shoulder my share of the school board responsibilities with no discredit. I believe either to myself or the city.

JANESVILLE GOING DRY TOMORROW

If All Who Are Convinced That the Saloon Is An Encumbrance
On Our Social Life Will Vote Their Convictions.

The Saloon Fighting For Its Life

The Moral Conscience of the Country is Aroused

The Chicago Record-Herald Repudiates the Whole Liquor Traffic. The Following Appeared In Yesterday's Record-Herald:

NO MORE LIQUOR ADVERTISING

THE RECORD-HERALD HAS DECIDED TO ELIMINATE LIQUOR ADVERTISING FROM ITS COLUMNS. IT WILL FULFILL ITS EXISTING CONTRACTS TO PRINT THIS CLASS OF ADVERTISING AND HAVING DONE THAT IT WILL ACCEPT NO MORE.

IN MAKING THIS ANNOUNCEMENT THE RECORD-HERALD DESIRES TO BE RIGHTLY UNDERSTOOD. THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF LIQUOR ARE SANCTIONED BY LAW AND THE ADVERTISING IS LEGITIMATE ADVERTISING. HOWEVER, PRINTING THIS CLASS OF ADVERTISING INVOLVES SOCIAL QUESTIONS THAT CALL FOR EMPHASIS AND INCREASED CONSIDERATION.

THE RECORD-HERALD GOES INTO MANY THOUSANDS OF HOMES. IN VIRTUALLY ALL OF THESE HOMES THERE IS AN ABIDING SENSE OF THE NEED OF PROTECTION AGAINST THE ABUSES OF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC, ESPECIALLY FOR THE YOUNG. IN A CONSTANTLY

INCREASING DEGREE THERE IS ABSTENTION FROM THE USE OF LIQUOR FOR THE SAKE OF THE YOUNG. THERE IS THE HAUNTING FEAR THAT FROM THE FIRST INDULGENCE THE YOUNG AND UNFORMED CHARACTER MAY UNCONSCIOUSLY DRIFT INTO AN UNCONTROLLED AND DESTRUCTIVE HABIT OF EXCESS.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING DOES NOT DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN USE AND ABUSE. IT COMMENDS WITHOUT RESERVE WHAT THE BEST SOCIAL SENSE OF THE DAY MORE AND MORE DISAPPROVES AS DANGEROUS.

THE RECORD-HERALD DOES NOT DENY THE VIEW THAT PURE ALCOHOLIC LIQUORS HAVE THEIR WISE AND PROPER USE IN INDIVIDUAL INSTANCES, BUT CONTENTS THAT THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE ADVOCACY OF SUCH USE SHOULD REST WITH THE FAMILY PHYSICIAN RATHER THAN THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER, AND DECLINES HENCEFORTH TO SHARE THIS RESPONSIBILITY.

The Knickerbocker Press of Albany, N. Y., has already joined and is one of the first daily newspapers to do so. On January 27 the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times and the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph made the brief announcement on their first pages that in order to harmonize their business policy with their editorial utterances they would thereafter neither seek nor accept advertisements of intoxicating liquors, and that they would cancel existing contracts for such advertising where possible, refusing to renew any upon their expiration.

Less than ten of the 736 newspapers in the state of Kansas accept liquor advertisements.

Alcohol defies nature and nature's God.

In every living thing there is the evolutionary impulse to rise and progress. In the human family man is not changing much in his physical nature, but is evolving chiefly in his nervous system, building up these delicate centers of the brain upon whose activities rests the moral sense. Nature is trying to produce men of high character, a race of true, noble men.

Alcoholic beverages even in moderation, reverse the processes of nature and set back the purposes of creation. Nature is pitiless when her processes are reversed. She abhors degeneracy and will not tolerate its perpetuation. With parents properly mated and undegenerated the offspring will multiply, and be higher and nobler in each succeeding generation. But woe to the offspring if the parents degenerate themselves. Nature will blast the progeny and everything associated with its production. Alcohol even blights the fruiting of plants and the offspring of animals. Upon a fruit tree watered with alcohol mixed with water the fruit will fall untimely. With animals the law is the same. Scientists selected from a litter of Spanish pups two little brothers exactly alike and brought them up, one as an alcoholic and the other as a total abstainer, giving the former only a small quantity of alcohol with his food, about equivalent in proportion to what benighted parents often give their children in beer or light wine mixed with water.

From another litter of Spaniels they selected two little sisters exactly alike in infancy, and brought them up, one as an alcoholic and the other as a total abstainer. When the four dogs were grown they were mated, the two alcoholics together, and the two total abstainers together, and the process was repeated.

The two mothers and the offspring were placed under close scientific observation. Extraordinary phenomena set in with the alcoholic mother.

She experienced difficulties and accidents, suffered great travail in birth, and finally died in pup-birth with the fifth litter, a phenomenon unknown before. Many of her offspring were born dead. Many of them died in infancy, and of those that survived only 17.3 per cent were normal.

The little abstaining mother had no such experience; she bore large litters of healthy, strong pups, of which 90.5 per cent were absolutely normal.

The same inexorable law holds for man as for animals and plants.

A scientist having investigated more than 800 cases announces that of children born to alcoholic parents, one of every five will be hopelessly insane, one out of three will be hysterical or epileptic, and more than two-thirds will be degenerate. Another scientist located ten large families in which both parents were alcoholic, and in the same localities, with other conditions practically the same, ten large families in which both parents were total abstainers.

Of the fifty-seven children of the alcoholic parents, ten were deformed, six were epileptic, six were idiotic, twenty-five were nonviable, only 17 per cent were normal, 83 per cent being abnormal. Of the sixty-one children of the total-abstaining parents 10.5 per cent only were abnormal, and these chiefly backward, while 89.5 per cent were absolutely normal. Seventeen per cent were normal in the one case and 89.5 per cent in the other case, a difference of 72.5 per cent. Parents, by being drinkers, will sacrifice three-fourths of their children on the altar of drink.

In the light of the truth that every drink endangers health, the terrible truth that alcohol destroys and degenerates, and that it blights progeny, there can be from the standpoint of the individual but one rational course of life with regard to this deadly poison, and that is a life of absolute, total abstinence.

The Recent Crime Committed in this City Illustrates the Above Facts

No saloon can thrive without making new recruits. Young men must be gotten to fill the ranks depleted by death, for drinkers die early. If each of our quarter of a million of saloons could recruit only two men and two boys each year for the ranks—a conservative estimate, we judge—the sum total would be one million American citizens started on the downward grade to drunkenness, moral ruin, and eternal death. This is the work these recruiting stations are doing every time, protected by the license system. Form a procession of these saloons, sad eyes and drunken men, and you have a picture of the future.

Play the dead march as they pass—tramp, tramp, tramp—keeping step to the solemn drum-beat of death. The smothered babies, the murdered wives, the suicides, the murdered men, the broken-hearted widows, the ruined girls, the beginners in crime, the idiots and insane, the drink-murdered men, the paupers; give each person one yard of space on which to walk and they will make a procession more than 900 miles long. The first one will arrive at Chicago before the last one left New York—every one of whose condition is as bad as, or worse than DEATH!

This is our country's annual offering to the god of drink. This is the yearly tribute our nation pays for the unspeakable privilege of keeping her saloons.

Some things paraded as argument by the liquor interests would be amusing if the question was not so important! For example the article by Miles Saunders.

In the Friday Gazette an article appeared over the signature of Miles Saunders. He has an eloquent plea for the business prosperity of Janesville. He insists that only business men who know what the business of Janesville demands should determine what Janesville should have or not have. We were anxious to know how much of the taxes of our city Miles Saunders paid.

We concluded that such heart-agony for the rights of the business man must be the cry of someone who has been under our industrial or commercial life for years.

Reference to the phone directories failed to discover his name. What a prominent business man without a phone?

A "financier" with "good business education" and "business experience" competent to vote Janesville "wet" or "dry," would certainly have business enough to afford at least one telephone. But in our search we turned to the city directory, and lo and behold no "Miles Saunders" there. Who is this Miles Saunders?

We conclude he is a recent importation to our city and claims superior genius to teach Janesville in municipal discretion. If the liquor interests are so poverty-stricken for men of business standing to defend their cause that they must depend on a man who has not been here long enough to have his name in the city directory, and according to the records does not pay a dollar in taxes, we who have been identified with the city's life for years and fought for its welfare have a right to speak and at the ballot box to vote.

The Tax Scare-Crow

Friends of the saloon are assembling their cast-off garments to construct scare-crows to frighten the timid voter.

The most humorous of all is the "High Tax Scare-crow." The poor bird has been kicked and cuffed by his friends and foes until he is tired of this world and too maimed to fly off to another.

The "Costly Experiment" in the Friday Gazette was a labored effort to get the crow to caw, but it was so faint that the low notes did not enchant or frighten the listener. It did not give figures for a single city.

Figures have been given to prove that Rockford has a lower tax rate than all cities of its class in Illinois. Janesville (wet) has a tax rate not counting state and county tax, of $10.26 per $1,000; Rockford (dry) $4.87. That does not look like a great calamity. If going dry will change the tax rate from $10.26 to $4.87 it would not frighten many people out of the city.

If the tax did increase somewhat it would be no argument for the keeping of forty-two saloons to jeopardize the best interests of the city.

What Does the Saloon Do?

THE SALOON
Debauches politics, corrupts legislatures, defies law, breeds criminals, produces poverty, increases taxation, depreciates property, disqualifies laborers, ruins homes, wrecks lives, profanes the Sabbath.

The saloon does help the saloon-keeper, the gambling house, the house of ill-fame, to make paupers, to make idlers, to make drunkards, to make orphans and widows, to debauch public conscience, to increase taxes.

The saloon does not help the poor man, the farmer, the groceryman, the dry goods man, the manufacturer, the mechanic, the county, the home, the church.

The saloon must go.

They Tell Us It Will Kill Trade. They Say:

"The trains from the dry towns of Brodhead, Orfordville, Evansville, Milton and Milton Junction are always crowded with people when they come up in the morning and the same people have great armfuls of bundles when they go back in the afternoon."

Of course they come from these towns to Janesville to trade and carry bundles back with them—but not bundles of "wet" goods. Booze is not put up in bundles.

They come now and will continue to come because of the "square deal" they get at the hands of Janesville merchants.

Rockford Has Not Slumped in its Business Since Voting Out the Saloon

A few facts gathered from business conditions in Rockford, Ill., may be helpful:

Savings Deposits Gain

In all banks in Rockford, January 1, 1913, the increase in deposits over the same period of 1912 was $930,000, of which increase $384,006 was in savings deposits.

In January 1914, savings deposits increased $250,000 over 1913.

It is significant too, that the largest gain in savings deposits was made by a bank so situated as to have a large patronage among workers in the furniture factories.

Postal Receipts Increase

Business men consider the postoffice receipts a significant barometer. The figures for the calendar year ending December 31st, are:

1910	$135,100.20
1911	135,200.42
1912	211,068.84
1913	253,938.28

Chief of Police A. E. Bargren says: "Judging from what I know of local conditions I would be compelled to state that the closed saloon policy had greatly lessened the amount of liquor drinking, and had been a blessing to the community."

Business Conditions

Business men generally report better collections and less loss from credits, during the "dry" years. The Rockford business men say they have learned a great lesson—that it does not pay to spend $1,000,000 so that $53,000 saloon license may be collected. A large part of the $1,000,000 that used to be taken in by our fifty-three saloons is now staying right here, increasing the city's wealth upon which to levy a tax and thus secure more revenue.

Warning and Appeal

Voters of Janesville! Remember, we are fighting a terrible antagonist, one which is thoroughly entrenched, one which does not hesitate to use any means to win; one which has told falsehoods so long that it has become a fixed habit. Some of the deceptions which they are using in this campaign are the same ones they have used for years.

The photographing empty buildings in dry towns is as old as the eternal hills; they have always used this method, they do not seem to be able to get anything better. Yet it is a well known fact that they take vacant buildings which have just been built before the men who have leased them have had time to move in.

This is only a sample of their many falsehoods. They are just now at the eleventh hour springing new falsehoods so rapidly that we cannot count them much less answer them, because of lack of time.

Posters in Saloon Windows Supposed to Represent (?) the Conditions in Rockford Handled Without Gloves By Attorney Welsh in His Address Sunday Evening.

Buildings vacant for a day would be taken by the camera of the Illinois liquor interest to make it appear that "dry" conditions sent business out of town. Some buildings were taken on two or three different sides to make it appear they were different buildings. When it was announced that a change was made in a business, the camera fiend pitched his tent so as to get a snapshot while the owner was taking the key to the new tenant. 42 of the 53 have been taken for other lines of business. It would not be strange if there would be few still vacant. Saloons will sometimes crowd in where no legitimate business would thrive or care to locate. Some of those shacks built for a saloon would not be occupied by a decent man for legitimate business rent free.

There are vacant buildings in Janesville with the so-called regulated saloon. Rockford has not suffered as disinterested men stand ready to testify. "Figures do not lie" unless juggled for a purpose.

Retail Liquor Dealers' Association called our attention to the twenty-three cases on the police court platter last Monday. Attorney Welsh answered that little piece of advertising:

Saturday night before they were celebrating a wedding in the Italian quarters when some one made a remark that others resented and then a free for all fight. A riot call was sent to the police headquarters and the celebration ended with twenty-three in court Monday morning. Liquor had nothing to do with that incident.

They do have police court cases in Rockford on Mondays. Sunday is a day when the thirsty will migrate to other cities and return in no condition to be seen in polite society.

Men of Janesville vote against your worst enemy, the un-American saloon. Business men are going to vote no license in this election who have never thought of voting it before. Straw votes taken in the factories indicate that the laboring men are going to vote right. Everything indicates that Janesville is going to vote against license with a good safe majority. All together then, get on the water wagon and away we go.

FLOWERS

Who Is There That Has Not In Some Secret Recess

A Withered Rose or Violet--In Memory of Days Past--But Not Forgotten?

Since the beginning of the world, flowers have been the silent messengers of friendship, love and constancy. Flowers carry Sunshine into the sick-room, faith and trust to the Sweet heart, and strengthen the ties of Friendship. One tiny blossom now, today--while I can still see and admire its beauty and inhale its fragrance--is worth more to me than will be a thousand roses laid upon my bier.

Do you spread as much sunshine among your friends, through flowers, as you might? Do you gladden the hearts of the ill and the aged with an occasional blossom? Do you remind the wife, now and then, through a few of her favorite Flowers, that she is still your sweetheart? If you do not do these things, my friend--then you are passing up one of nature's rarest opportunities.

Better Do It Today-- Tomorrow May Be Too Late

It doesn't require a fortune to carry on the good work of the Flowers. A dollar will purchase an abundance of fair Blossoms--a dime will buy a rose, and remember--one Rose NOW is better than a thousand AFTER.

REVENUE IS SLIGHT FROM SUGAR TARIFF

American Economist Describes Evils That Have Followed the Enactment of New Law.

(By Winfield Jones.)
Washington, D. C., April 5.—Sugar, which heretofore has produced approximately $50,000,000 annual customs revenue for the government, is now, under the Underwood-Simmons tariff law, producing absolutely nothing in revenue. Far worse than that, however, is the practical ruin of the American sugar industry under the democratic tariff.

The American Economist well describes evils that have followed the American sugar industry with enactment of the democratic tariff law.

At the recent annual meeting of the Louisiana Sugar Planters' Association, held in New Orleans, the president, Hon. Edward C. Gay of Iberville Parish, says the Economist, presented his annual report, in which he said:

"It is now my duty to record briefly the most historic event of the year, and one which marks a new era, if not the death knell of sugar production in Louisiana. Never since sugar was first produced, in 1796, has such a severe blow been dealt to the industry as the passage of the Underwood tariff bill. It is not necessary, quite unnecessary, for us to go into the merits of the sugar tariff question at this time. It is, however, my belief, that everything that could legitimately be done to prevent the passage of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, was done; that every fact and argument that could be brought to the attention of the powers that be, in Washington, was presented to them, but to no avail.

"We, as members of this association, and as individual planters, are grateful to our United States senators, Senators Thornton and Randall, and to those of our congressmen, representatives Broussard, Dupre, Morgan, and Lazaro, for the many ways in which they fought for and defended the most important industry of their state; likewise, to those citizens of both New Orleans and the sugar parishes, who devoted their time and energy to the effort to ward off or postpone the blow, we are deeply grateful.

"The future is not easy to predict at this time. The planters of Louisiana are made up of a class which has been the backbone of the state, and are a sturdy lot, not easily discouraged. Where circumstances have permitted, large plantings of cane have been made for this season, and new economies, with diversification, are being practiced generally. Every effort is being made to produce a better grade of sugar and molasses, and to reduce cost and bring successful results. These efforts will be, it remains for the future to tell us.

"The death blow was dealt and the death knell was sounded by the political party which Louisiana has always voted. No other country on earth so mistreats its sugar growers. It remained for the free trade government, elected in 1912, to assassinate the American sugar industry. Perhaps Louisiana will some day get tired of that kind of government and become a protectionist state. It is about time she learned to adjust her politics to her interests.

"A recent press dispatch from Honolulu, under date of March 16th said: 'Justice Arthur A. Wilder, who has just returned from Washington, where he conferred with President Wilson regarding the islands' sugar industry, announced today that the government would protect the sugar growers in the islands by threatening with extinction by the new tariff law. The protective measures to be taken will be the removal of the application here of the Chinese exclusion laws, and the abolition of coastwise shipping restrictions.'

So it is that the evil of free trade brings other evils in its train. To enable Hawaiian sugar planters to keep alive their cane fields, it is permitted to bring in Chinese coolie labor, and also to employ foreign vessels in the transportation of their sugar product to the American market. It is a direct violation of American policy, a difficulty brought about by un-American free trade. But the beet sugar growers of California, Colorado and the Mississippi valley states cannot enjoy their cane fields without the cost of foreign ships to carry their product to market. They must employ American labor and patronize American railroads at several times the cost of the Hawaiian planters. No one can blame the Hawaiians for doing the best they can to save themselves from free trade ruin, but it is tough on the American farmers.

WHOLESALE GROCERY BARN CATCHES FIRE

Quick Action of the Department Prevents Great Damage.—Horses Rescued.

About seven forty-five last evening a fire broke out in the barn occupied by the wholesale grocery of the Janesville Wholesale Grocery. This barn is located between the Nichols Harness Factory and the Fife Coal Elevator, on N. High street. The alarm was rung in from box 19, at the corner of Jackson and West Bluff streets. A few minutes after the fire started the sky was red with the flames of the burning building. However, the department made a quick run and were soon fighting the blaze with one stream from the hydrants and several of the chemicals. Inside of fifteen minutes the fire was under control, and in less than a half hour the department had succeeded in putting it out. None of the horses of the store were injured, having been led out by the firemen as soon as they arrived on the scene. The damage to the building is slight.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

HOW WE FOOL OURSELVES.

I have a wise mind that knows its own motive. I often see sincerely believe that we are actuated by some most commendable consideration, while all the time in the background of our minds, lurking behind our dense ignorance of ourselves, skulks some far less worthy motive.

Occasionally something brings this real motive out from its hiding place, and then we are as surprised as the veriest stranger.

Once upon a time I planned to take a little breathing spell in the country. A friend of mine who is in great need of a rest was to accompany me and we were to meet two other old friends at the little inn to which we were to escape. I had been a most instrumental in persuading her to take this rest. Therefore when circumstances arose at my home which made it difficult for me to be spared, I was greatly troubled. You see I knew what my friend would not go without me and I felt she ought to.

"Of course if it were only myself I had to consider, I shouldn't hesitate a moment," I assured myself, "but I can't bear to see her give it up." And, acquainted, as I sincerely believed, chiefly by this motive, I phoned her that the sudden death of a dear aunt had made it imperative that she should give up the trip after all. Of course my first feeling was sorrow for her, but close, oh so close, upon its heels came another feeling, a strong disinclination to give up the trip for myself. And much to my own sincere surprise, I found that I was almost anxious to go as ever, and that the selfish part of me was already marshaling new arguments why I should go, such as that I needed the rest and would be of more service at home if I took it.

"Don't ask me that. If I say 'No' I shall be claiming too much merit. If I say 'Yes' I shall be confessing too much selfishness." The point I wanted to bring out was that all the time I had been deceiving myself about my own motive.

I have chattered at such length about myself because I wanted to illustrate the tendency of self-deception, and I know what goes on in my own mind better than I can know about any one else's.

Of course I may be wrong in thinking this is typical, but I have often been astonished to hear people ascribing the most unlikely motives to their own actions and intentions, and I cannot help thinking a similar self-deception is going on within their minds.

"I've ceased to justify my deeds unto myself." The last infirmity of evil!

—Lionel Byron.

Wonder if he had. I wonder if anyone ever does.

Dried Beef With Eggs—Shave one-half pound of beef and put it into tepid water for half an hour, with a pinch of soda in the water to counteract the acid in the dried beef. Drain off the water and cut the meats into small bits. Return to the pan with a tablespoonful of butter and a little pepper, then add four well-beaten eggs, stir briskly for a moment and send to the table in a covered dish.

Potato Rice—Boil two pounds of potatoes, mash them with two ounces of butter and four tablespoonfuls of boiling milk and season with pepper and salt. Put them into a large colander and press them through onto a hot dish. Be sure and shake the colander every minute or so, that the potatoes may fall lightly like rice. Serve very hot with broiled steak or sausages.

Baked Eggplant—Remove the stalk but not the skin, wash, cut into halves, put on in boiling water and boil till fairly tender (about one-half hour) drain out into small pieces and season with salt and pepper and plenty of butter. Place in a baking dish with a thick layer of bread crumbs and more butter. Bake till brown in a quick oven and serve in the same dish.

Tomato Salad—Pour boiling water over eight or ten tomatoes and let stand a moment. Pour off and add cold water. Take the skins off, slice and set away to become cold. Serve with a cold dressing.

Apple Tapioca—Three-quarters of a cup of tapioca or sago, one quart of hot water, one-half teaspoonful of salt, six or seven apples, one-half cupful of sugar, cinnamon or nutmeg, sugar. Pick over and wash the tapioca or sago, soak about one hour. Pour on the hot water, cook till clear, stir often, add the salt. Pare and core the apples, slice and put whole in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle sugar and spice over them and turn in the sago. Bake till the apples are soft. Serve with milk and sugar.

GOOD, HOMELY, MEAT DISHES.

Buy a piece of round from the under half, as it is a bit cheaper and not so tender. For two pounds of the steak chopped fine, add a teaspoon and a half of salt, a quarter of a teaspoon of pepper, one small onion chopped; mix well and make into flat cakes. Place on a woven wire broiler and cook over red coals, turning every eight counts until well seared over. Then cook more slowly until sufficiently cooked for the family taste.

Scotch Stew—Take four pounds of mutton from the fore quarter, one onion, one turnip, one carrot, one-half cup of barley, two stalks of celery, one tablespoonful of flour, salt and pepper to taste. Soak the barley overnight, cut the meat into small pieces, put into a kettle with the barley, add two cupfuls of boiling water, reduce the heat and simmer until the meat is tender. Chop the vegetables, and cook five minutes in a little fat; add to the meat and cook until tender.

Stuffed Heart Baked—One calf's heart, one bay leaf, two stalks of celery, one-half a small red pepper and one cup of seasoned bread crumbs for stuffing. Trim the heart, soak in salted water for a few minutes to draw out any blood. Place in a sauce pan and add the vegetables and seasonings. Then add boiling water to barely cover. Bring to the boiling point and simmer at very low temperature until the heart is tender. Remove the heart, and when cool enough fill with the stuffing. Place in a kettle and add one cupful of stock from the kettle; when well heated through, dust with flour and brown in the oven. Serve with a mound of rice or mashed potatoes.

Beef Goulash—Take two pounds of lean beef cut into inch squares. Three large onions sliced, two tablespoonfuls of fat, one cup of chopped cabbage, eight small potatoes, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoon of paprika, one cup of boiling water and half a cup of milk. When the meat is brown in the hot fat, remove from the fat and add the vegetables; fry for five minutes, then add the water and seasonings. The potatoes are best added later, as they cook sooner than the cabbage. When all are tender, add the milk. Boil up and serve at once.

Women Worth While

MRS. HUNTER H. MOSS.

(By Selene Armstrong Harmon.)

"Happy women like happy nations, have no history," laughed Mrs. Hunter H. Moss, wife of Representative Moss, of West Virginia.

"We have two boys in the public school here and we also have a little daughter of three. They are my excuses for being the sort of woman about whom there is nothing to write, just an old-fashioned, home woman."

The three children of Representative and Mrs. Moss are Ambler and Hunter, two sturdy lads of eleven and nine years, and little Anne Cary, a girl of three who speaks English with a fascinating mixture of Spanish, which she has learned from a nurse who is a native of Jamaica.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Moss was Anna Ambler, of West Virginia. When she became a matron of the Congressional set less than a year ago she renewed many happy girlhood ties. "Before her marriage she spent several years at one of the large private schools at the capital, and made warm friends among Washington girls. While studying here, she gave much time to the cultivation of a mezzo-soprano voice, which is of great range and sweetness."

Mrs. Moss is considered one of the handsomest of the Congressional women. She has brilliant dark eyes which contrast effectively with a very fair skin, and she has retained a girlish youthfulness of face and figure that is most attractive. Her speaking voice has the quality of softness characteristic of the voices of most Southern women.

Mrs. Moss is interested heart and soul in her children's work and play. She follows them in their studies, but is happiest when she can watch them from her window as they play in the sunny back yard which is a feature of the big house their parents are occupying in Washington for the present season.

Happy, Happy Wash Day! SKITCH Made It So

No More Rubbing Clothes on a Washboard—No More Making Your Hands Tender And Sore in Hot Suds—Use SKITCH.

Who'd be so foolish as to rob clothes on a wash-board now when SKITCH will clean your clothes better and quicker without rubbing? SKITCH is a wonder! Use three teaspoonfuls of SKITCH to a boilerful of clothes and it just skitches the dirt out of the clothes while you sit and rest or do up your other work. Mrs. Alice Juhr of 540 Stowell Ave., Milwaukee, says: "My clothes are all out on the line now by 9 o'clock. I used to be 12 and often later before I was done. And I would be so worn out from bending over a wash-board. SKITCH is a perfect godsend to women."

Don't worry for a minute that SKITCH can hurt your clothes. SKITCH positively is guaranteed not to injure the finest fabric. It's so harmless you can even eat a handful of it without hurt.

Get a 10 cent package of SKITCH from your grocer and try it—seven washings in every package—just a little over a cent a day to save the hard work of a wash day—less than the soap used in the rubbing would cost. If your grocer won't supply you with SKITCH send his name to me and I'll send you a free sample. Hans Fichtenberg, Milwaukee, Wis.

The city election will take place tomorrow, and we hope that the republican electors will not rest supinely and allow their political enemies to carry off the honors of the day. There is a large republican majority in the city and if the entire ticket is not elected it will be because of neglect on the part of the voters.

Among those whose names we find on the roll of honor, being those who have not missed a day of school since the beginning of the term twelve weeks ago, in the high school, are: Jennie Paterson, Lizzie Paterson, George Scarell, Harris Richardson; first intermediate, Wallace Nash, James Brown; second intermediate, Willie Bates, George Wheelock; third intermediate, Adam Airls, Julia Echlin, Willie Cook.

Heart and Home Problems

Heart and home problems... your neck will show good results in a few days.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman but haven't a word to say to my husband for over a year. He has deserted me. Do you think it right for me to go to live with other men as his friends and not lovers?

If a man is married and a part of, do you think it wrong for us to be together?

I like my husband very much, but he doesn't seem to care for me as much as I care for him. He does for other women, and do you think I ought to live with him if he doesn't care for me? My husband wants me to go and live with him.

It seems to me that if you would try to be a good wife and put other men out of your mind your husband might be more willing to live with you and be a good husband. Suppose you try it.

I think it is very dangerous for a man separated from his wife to go with some other man's wife who is separated from her husband. And I don't think it right for a wife to be so friendly with other men. Her duty to her own husband should keep her too busy to be going around with other men, even as friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you please tell me what to do for a "weak neck"? It has no effort. (2) Can you tell me how to remove moles from the face and neck? (3) Also how to make friends with the boys?

"BLUE EYES."

(1) I am afraid, my dear, that you are in too big a hurry. Lemon juice will whiten the neck, but it takes time. These things can't be done in a week. Use the lemon juice once a day, let it stay on. When washing, use first very warm water and soap, rinse well, then dash cold water on the skin and finally rub in a good cold cream. Do not wear high collars, as they discolor the neck. Keep at this persistently and

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please suggest a name for a club of eight girls ranging between the ages of thirteen and sixteen? (2) Also suggest a way of making money.

THE GIRLS.

(1) Take the first letters of your Christian name and twist them around until you get a name.

(2) You might make quilts, or make a monogram quilt or sofa cushions, to go into a church bazaar or be raffled. You may be able to crochet lace that you can sell, or do hem-stitching for women too busy to do it for themselves. Find out what you can do that other people want done, charge a reasonable price for it and you will get all the work you can accomplish.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Butter should look well should be placed a quarter of an inch from the edge and crosswise of the material. Starch is much improved by long boiling. Instead of being made in the kitchen, it is better to pour the boiling water into it without further cooking. To prevent chipping china, cut about one inch of ordinary rubber band, lose and slip over the end of the faucet in the kitchen sink. It will prevent many a nick in china.

First wash your eyes by putting a dark cloth directly under your chin and wash. It will be seen plainer.

THE TABLE.

Corried Lentils—Soak a half pint of red lentils in water for three or four hours. Drain off the water. Put in sauce pan one ounce of butter and one onion sliced thin and cook until a nice brown and add the lentils and one pint of boiling water and simmer one hour; then add the juice of one-half of a lemon, one teaspoonful of curry powder, salt and pepper; cook ten minutes longer and serve with boiled rice.

Fried Tomatoes—Dice without peeling ripe tomatoes, sprinkle them with salt and pepper and dredge lightly on both sides with flour.

Saute them in hot butter until nicely browned. Or roll them in fine cracker crumbs and saute. Serve on a hot platter.

Corn Bread—One pint of hot corn meal, one tablespoonful of melted butter or lard, two eggs beaten separately. Add sweet milk enough to make it like cake batter. Put in a buttered pudding dish and bake one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Serve in the dish.

Molasses Cookies—One cup of molasses, one cup of sugar, one cup of butter or lard, one tablespoonful of ginger, one tablespoonful of soda, one-half cupful of sour milk, two eggs, one quart of flour. Mix in the order given, roll out, cut and bake in a moderate oven.

Spinach Salad—Boil a peck of spinach, season and mould six slices of cold boiled tongue or ham on lettuce leaves. Turn out the contents of each claret glass on a slice of the meat. Cover with French dressing and garnish with some hard boiled eggs.

Rice Pudding—One-half cup of rice one and one-half pints of milk, one-half cup of sugar, large pinch of salt, one tablespoonful of lemon rind salt, one tablespoonful of oil, one-half cupful of salt, and a few grains of cayenne. Shape in forms of birds, dip in crumbs, eggs and crumbs, insert slices of raw potato cut to represent wings and tail, and use cloves to represent the eyes. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper.

Somerset Potatoes—To two cups of hot rice potatoes add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half cup of grated mild cheese, yolks of three eggs slightly beaten, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and a few grains of cayenne. Shape in forms of birds, dip in crumbs, eggs and crumbs, insert slices of raw potato cut to represent wings and tail, and use cloves to represent the eyes. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper.

"It isn't the things you do dear,
 It's the things you leave undone;
 That gives you the little heart-ache
 At the setting of the sun."

That isn't quoted right, we know it! We only want to say in connection with these verses that it is generally the things we leave undone that gives us the leanness of purse that the most of us find so blamed distressing.

For instance: we planned to dispose of all our spare and useless house-furnishings this Spring. We put off advertising the fact that we had a surplus lot of furniture until there had been so many sales of this kind that we were discouraged.

We knew the power of the want ad columns through the telling of a friend, but we simply delayed. She sold her old furniture and purchased a new round dining table that she had wanted for the past three years. As they were not as well fixed as they would like to be, they needs must make haste slowly. However the want ad page helped her to obtain her table. Wish I'd been as far-seeing!

Are Told How to Regain Strength and Vigor.

As one grows old the waste of the system becomes more rapid than repair, the organs act more slowly and less effectively than in youth, the circulation is poor, the blood thin and digestion weak.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil is the ideal strengthener and body-builder for old folks; for it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. Vinol also fortifies the system against colds and thus prevents pneumonia.

Mrs. Mary Ivey, of Columbus, Ga., says: "I, people, only knew the good Vinol does old people. I am sure you will be unable to supply the demand. I never took anything before that did me so much good as Vinol. It is the finest tonic and strength creator I ever used in my life."

If Vinol fails to build up the feeble, old people, and create strength we will return your money. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Janesville, Wis.

DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

THOUSANDS EXPERIENCE BAD AFTER EFFECTS FROM THIS DANGEROUS DRUG.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity, when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. All druggists.

The Valiants of Virginia

He turned his head. "Tell me about it," he said.

She glanced at him curiously. "Didn't you know? That was the reason the place was abandoned. Valiant, who lived here, and the owner of another plantation, who was named Sassoon, quarreled. They fought, the story is, under those big hemlock trees. Sassoon was killed."

He looked out across the distance; he could not trust his face. "And—Valiant?"

"He went away the same day and never came back; he lived in New York till he died. He was the father of the court's present owner. You never heard the story?"

"No," he admitted. "I—till quite recently I never heard of Damory Court."

"That was the last duel ever fought in Virginia. Dueling was a dreadful custom. I'm glad it's gone. Aren't you?"

"Yes," he said slowly. "It was a thing that cut two ways. Perhaps Valiant, if he could have had his choice afterward, would rather have been lying there that morning than Sassoon."

"He must have suffered, too," she agreed, "or he wouldn't have exiled himself as he did. I used to wonder if it was a love quarrel—whether they could have been in love with the same woman."

"But why should he go away?"

"I can't imagine, unless she had really loved the other man. If she couldn't have borne seeing Valiant afterward."

She paused with a little laugh. "But then," she said, "it may have been nothing so romantic. Valiant's grandfather, who was known as Deif John, is said to have called a man out because he rode past him on the wrong side. Our ancestors in Virginia, I'm afraid, didn't stand on ceremony when they felt upish."

He did not smile. He was looking out once more over the luminous stretch of fields, his side-face towards her. Curious and painful questions were running through his brain. With an effort, he thrust these back and recalled his attention to what she was saying.

"You wonder, I suppose, that we feel as we do toward these old estates, and set store by them, and—yes, and brag of them insufferably as we do. But it's in our blood. You Northerners think we're desperately conceited," she smiled, "but it's true. We're still as proud of our land, and its old, old places, and love them as well as our ancestors ever did. Do you wonder we resent their passing to people who don't care for them in the Southern way?"

"But suppose the newcomers do care for them?"

"Her lips curled. "A young millionaire who has lived all his life in New York, to care for Damory Court? A youth idiotically rich, brought up in a superheated atmosphere of noise and money?"

He started uncontrollably. So that was what she thought! He felt himself flushing. He had wondered what would be his impression of the neighborhood and its people; their possible opinion of himself had never occurred to him.

"You think there's no chance of his choosing to stay here because he actually likes it?"

"Not the slightest," she said indifferently.

"You are so certain of this without ever having seen him?"

She glanced at him covertly, anxiously sensible of the impropriety of the discussion, since the man discussed was certainly his patron, may be his friend. But his insistence had roused a certain balking wilfulness that would have its way. "It's true I've never seen him," she said, "but I've read about him a hundred times in the Sunday supplements. He's a regular feature of the high-roller section. His idea of a good time is a dog-banquet at Sherry's. Why, a girl told me once that there was a cigarette named after him—the Vanity Valiant!"

"Isn't that beside the point? Because he has been an idler, must he necessarily be a—vandal?"

She laughed again. "He wouldn't call it vandalism. He'd think it decided improvement to make Damory Court as fantastically different as possible. I suppose he'll erect a glass cupola and a porte-cochere, all up-to-date and varnished, and put orchid hot-houses where the wilderness garden was, and a modern marble cupola instead of the summer-house, and lay out a kite-shaped track."

Everything that was impulsive and explosive in John Valiant's nature came out with a bang. "No!" he cried, "whatever else he is, he's not such a preposterous ass as that!"

She faced him squarely now. Her eyes were sparkling. "Since you know him so intimately and so highly approve of him—"

"No, no," he interrupted. "You mistake me. I shouldn't try to justify him." His flush had risen to the roots of his brown hair, but he did not lower his gaze. Now the red color slowly ebbed, leaving him pale. "He has been an idler—that's true enough—and till a week ago he was 'idiotically rich.' But his idling is over now. At this moment, except for this one property, he is little better than a beggar."

She had taken a hasty step or two back from him, and her eyes were now fixed on his with a dawning, half-fearful question in them.

"The failure of the Valiant Corporation," he had never heard of Damory Court, much less been aware that he owned it. It wasn't because he loved it that he came here—no! How could it be? He had never set foot in Virginia in his mortal life."

She put up her hands to her throat with a start. "Game?" she echoed. "Come!"

"But if you think that even he could be so crassly stupid, so monumentally blind to all that is really, fine and beautiful—"

"Oh!" she cried with flashing comprehension. "Oh, how could you! You—"

He nodded curtly. "Yes," he said. "I am that hapless harlequin, John Valiant, himself."

CHAPTER XIV.

On the Edge of the World.

There was a pause not to be reckoned by minutes but suffocatingly long. She had grown as pale as he.

"That was ungenerous of you," she said then with icy slowness. "Though no doubt you found it entertaining. It must have still further amused you to be taken for an architect."

"I am flattered," he replied, with a trace of bitterness, "to have suggested even for a moment, so worthy a calling."

At his answer she put out her hand with sudden gesture, as if bluntly thrusting the matter from her concern, and turning went back along the tree-shadowed path.

He followed, glancing, gnawing his lip, waiting to say he knew not what, but wretchedly tongue-tied, noting that the great white moth was still waving its creamy wings as if she would stomp and wondering if she would take the cape jessamines.

He was embarrassed relief when, passing the roots where they lay, she stooped to raise them.

Then all at once the blood seemed to shrink from his heart. With a hoarse cry he leaped toward her, seized her wrist and roughly dragged her back, feeling as he did so, a sharp fiery sting on his instep. The next moment, with clenched teeth, he was viciously stamping his heel again and again, driving into the soft earth a twisting, root-like something that slapped the brown wintered leaves into a hissing turmoil.

He had flung her from him with such violence that she had fallen aside. Now she raised herself, kneeling in the feathery light, both hands clasped close to her breast, trembling excessively with loathing and feeling the dim earth-floor billow like a canvas sea in a theater. Little puffs of dust from the protesting ground were wreathing about her set face, and she pressed one hand against her shoulder to repress her sobs.

"The horrible—horrible—thing!" she said whisperingly. "It would have bitten me!"

He came toward her, panting, and grasping her hand, lifted her to her feet. He staggered slightly as he did so, and she saw his lips twist together oddly. "Ah," she gasped, "it bit you! It bit you!"

"No," he said, "I think not."

"Look! There on your ankle—that spot!"

"I did feel something, just that first moment." He laughed uncertainly. "It's queer. My foot's gone fast asleep."

Every remnant of color left her face. She had known a negro child who had died of a water-moccasin's bite some years before—the child of a house-servant. It had been wading in the creek in the gorge. The doctor had said then that if one of the other children—

She grasped his arm. "Sit down," she commanded, "here, on this log, and see."

Her pale fright caught him. He obeyed, dragged off the low shoe and bared the tingling spot. The firm white flesh was puffing up around two tiny, blue-rimmed punctures. He reached into his pocket, then remembered that he had no knife. As the next best thing he knotted his handkerchief quickly above the ankles, thrust a stick through the loop and twisted it till the ligature cut deeply, while she knelt beside him, her lips moving soundlessly, saying over and over to herself words like these: "I must not be frightened. He doesn't realize the danger, but I do. I must be quite collected. It is a mile to the doctor's. I might run to the house, and send Uncle Jefferson, but it would take too long. Besides, the doctor might not be there. There is no one to do anything but me."

She crouched beside him, putting her hands by his on the stick and wrenching it over with all her strength. "Tighter, tighter," she said. "It must be tighter. But to her dismay, at the last turn the improvised cord snapped, and the released stick flew a dozen feet away."

Her heart leaped chokingly, then dropped into hammer-like thudding. He leaned back on one arm, trying to laugh, but she noted that his breath came shortly as if he had been running. "Absurd!" he said, frowning. "How such a fool thing—can hurt!"

Suddenly she threw herself on the ground and grasped the foot with both hands. He could see her face twitch with shuddering, and her eyes dilating with some determined purpose.

"What are you going to do?"

"This," she said, and he felt her shrinking lips, warm and tremulous, pressed hard against his instep.

He drew away sharply, with savage denial. "No—no! Not that! You shan't! My lord—you shan't!" He dragged his numbing foot from her desperate grasp, lifting himself, pushing her from him; but she fought with him, clinging, panting broken sentences:

"You must! It's the only way. It was a moccasin, and it's deadly. Every minute counts!"

For the sake of their social prestige. Now, at dinner, the conversation happened to turn to the question of ancestry.

"By the way, Mrs. D., asked one of the guests, 'what was your father's business?'"

"I won't. No, stop! How do you know? It's not going to—here, listen! Take your hands away. Listen! Listen! I can go to the house and send Uncle Jefferson for the doctor and he—No! stop, I say! Oh—I'm sorry if I hurt you. How strong you are!"

"Let me!"

"No! Your lips are not for that—good God, that damnable thing! You yourself might be—"

"Let me! Oh, how cruel you are! It was my fault. But for me it would never have—"

"No! I would rather—"

"Let me! Oh, if you died!"

With all the force of her strong young body she wrenched away his protesting hands. A thrust and a sickish feeling were upon him, a curious irresponsible giddiness, and her hair which that struggle had brought in tumbled masses about her shoulders, seemed to have little flames running all over it. His foot had entirely lost its feeling. There was a strange weakness in his limbs.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like every thing else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

STEAMED SEED BEDS MEAN EARLY PLANTS

Tobacco Growers Advised to Take Precautions Against Weeds, Bed Rot and Root Disease.

By the expenditure of comparatively little time and money farmers may weed their tobacco plant beds, free them of bed rot and root disease, and wonderfully improve their chances of producing a uniform and early crop of strong, healthy tobacco plants. All these things can be done at a cost of not to exceed $1.00 for each 100 square feet of bed, according to James Johnson of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

To improve prospects for a large yield, increase the promise of profit and save themselves no end of worrying, they have but to resort to the steaming of their plant beds, which process, Mr. Johnson and his associates have found, is practicable and economical for Wisconsin conditions.

To steam the soil only a boiler, pan, and connecting steam hose or gas pipe is required. Mr. Johnson recommends the use of that and an ordinary traction engine to furnish the steam. By removing the whistle and attaching a three-fourths inch pipe with a steam valve for a shutoff, the steam may be taken out of the steam dome and conducted through a 4-ply steam hose to the pan. A piece of gas pipe may be substituted for part of the hose to lessen the cost.

"The pan found best suited for tobacco bed steaming," Mr. Johnson declares, "is made of number 15 alvanized iron and is six feet wide, twelve feet long, and eight inches deep. Handles of one-inch gas pipe are attached to the sides. The iron must be riveted and soldered together so as to be air tight. The lower edge of the pan should be fairly sharp in order that it may be readily pressed into the soil. The top of the pan is preferably reinforced by two strips of angle iron running the full length of the pan. A three-fourths inch pipe, firmly attached, serves as the inlet for the steam. It is advisable to make the steam discharge into the pan through a piece of perforated pipe. This serves as a distributor.

The soil should be made ready for the steaming before the steam pan is set upon the bed. The edges of the pan are pressed down an inch or two into the soil in order to prevent the steam from escaping.
The steam should be turned into the pan from the boiler at a pressure of 100 to 150 pounds for thirty minutes.
The pressure is regulated by means of the valve on the dome. If the steam is run in too fast, the pan may be raised and steam allowed to escape. After thirty minutes' steaming the steam may be shut off and the pan moved to the next section, where the operation is repeated.
The length of time for steaming varies somewhat with the character of the soil and the pressure of steam used. In general the heavier the soil, or the lower the pressure, the longer the steaming must be done. To obtain the best results the soil should be in a moist but not wet condition.

FROM POOR BOY TO MAYOR OF BOSTON; CURLEY'S CAREER; CALLS WIFE BIG HELP

Mayor-elect Curley, his wife and children.

"From a poor boy to mayor-elect of Boston, with a dominating position in Massachusetts politics, is the boast of James M. ("Jim") Curley.
He was further handicapped by a jail sentence.

Born in the south end of Boston thirty-nine years ago, Curley became a clerk in a drug store at an early age. Later he was a salesman for a grocery store. In the meantime, he widened his acquaintance and developed a natural eloquence.
In the early nineties he became interested in politics, served in the Boston city council and in the board of aldermen, and then was elected to the legislature. Next he became a congressman, and is at present serving his second term.

Curley says that much of his success in politics is due to the inspiration and sound judgment of his wife.
They have four children—James M.
Jr., aged six; Mary, five; Dorothy, three; Baby Paul, seven months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Becker.

year convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, but who is now near freedom as a result of the recent decision of the New York court of appeals. Since Becker's conviction the wife's life has been a story of tragedy. At first it was the infant that was born after the conviction of the father; then the mother of the prisoner died; and a few days ago
Mrs. Ellen Campbell, mother of Mrs.
Becker, died at the latter's home.

BOB'S RECKLESS DRIVE

By W. F. CODY.

A typical man of the west was talking to a few friends and discussing the good old times of the overland stage and pony express, Indian fights, and when the "real bad man from Bitter Creek" was much in evidence.

The westerner was Col. M. B. Russell of Deadwood, and he looked just what he was—a man who had "been there."

"There was one drive over the Overland trail which I will remember to their day of passing in their chips. If they have not already cashed in and gone across the Great Divide," said the colonel.

"It was in Bob Scott's coach and run, and he it known Bob. was the best, yet the most reckless, driver on the Overland trail."

"It was in the early '80s, and the coach came in to Horseshoe with the six Britishers only, and was loaded down with their baggage."

"There Bob Scott was to take the reins and drive the old hearse through to Fort Laramie, and the driver that brought them in told how the six passengers had grumbled all along, the trail against the slow rate they went."

"Each driver had taken his share of abuse, and each one had passed word along to Bob about it."

"Blame me bloody eyes, but you don't know anything about staging in this blasted heathen country," said one of the party to Bob Scott.

Bob Scott smiled and said, simply: "I'll see what I can do to please you."

"Then Bob went to the stables and got the stock tenders to hitch up six of the pony express riders' horses for his team that day, and animals not all broken to coaching."

"We'll strike Laramie on time, or I'll know why not," grimly said Bob Scott, and he mounted the box as the Englishmen came out from dinner and eyed the new team, with men holding them on the earth."

"I'm blest if I don't believe that's a fair going team of cobs," said one.

"All aboard!" shouted Bob.

"Blame you, turn 'em loose!" and other things were said to Bob, along with much abuse.

"The trail led up a long hill, half a dozen miles in length, but then came a sharp and rough descent."

"Then came Bob's chance, and, wild at the abuse heaped upon him, he gave a yell, threw the reins, three on one side, three on the other, to drag on the ground, and began to lay the whip upon the team."

"If the Englishmen at first were pleased, it was only for a moment, as Bob drew his revolver and fired six shots in the air, yelling as he fired."

"His next mad act was to tear first one lamp, then the other from the sides, and hurl them full force at the leaders, the tingling of the broken glass startling them the more."

"The Englishmen were scared half out of their wits by this time."

"They dared not jump out, though a hasty council of war decided unanimously that they were being driven by a madman."

"To add fuel to the fire, Bob leaned back and calmly asked: 'Gentlemen, does this style of staging please you?'"

"A groan in chorus was the answer."

"The next station was ten miles from Horseshoe, and with a hop, skip and jump the coach went along, dragged by the maddened team."

"The stock tenders heard the noise, saw the horses tearing along, and knew that they were running away, and quickly threw the stable doors wide open, knowing the animals would rush in."

"It was a close call for all, but Bob ordered the coach backed out, a fresh team hitched up, and quietly called out: 'All aboard, gentlemen!'"

"But the six Englishmen had had more than their money's worth and their fill of Bob Scott, and refused to ride further with him."

Held Letter Thirty Years.

Max Norman, passenger agent for a large transatlantic steamship line, had returned to him a letter that he mailed to Captain Larson of the Swedish bark Superior more than thirty years ago.

It was addressed to the captain care of the Swedish and Norwegian consul at Marseilles, France, and the envelope bore the postmark, "New York, October 2, 1883," and "Marseilles, October 18, 1883."

"That was written in Sweden to Captain Larson," Mr. Norman said recently, "by one of our clerks when I was with the firm of Benham & Boyer, and must have lain all these years in the consul's office in Marseilles."

It was to request the captain to sell her when he arrived. He never came, and I never heard what became of the Swedish bark Superior."

The French postal authorities had stamped the letter "Return New York."—New York World.

It Can't Be Done.

"Do you believe that all things are possible?"

"Sure I do!"

"Well, then explain this to me: Here's the announcement of the engagement of a popular deaf-mute couple, after a very romantic courtship."

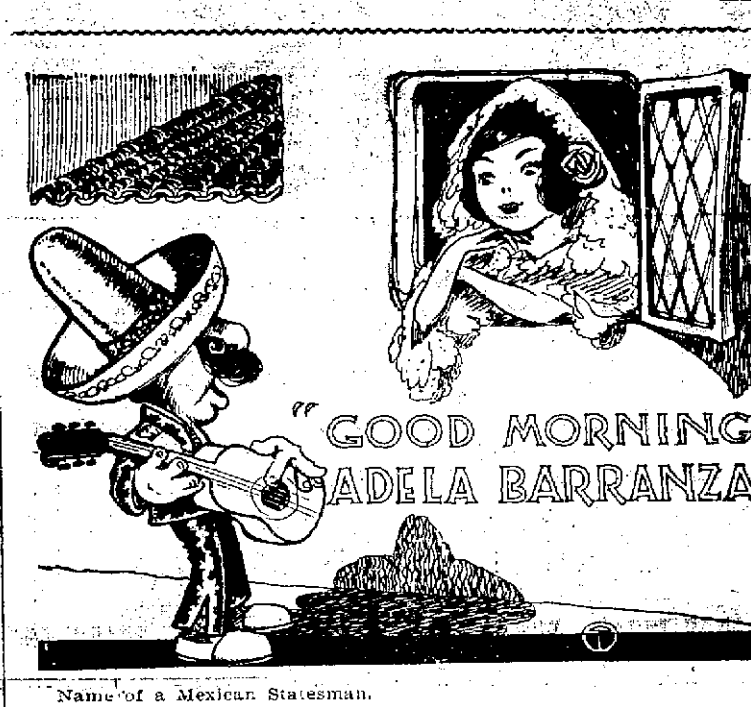

"Well?"

"Tell me how the bridegroom-elect went about whispering the old, sweet story in the ear of the bride-elect?"

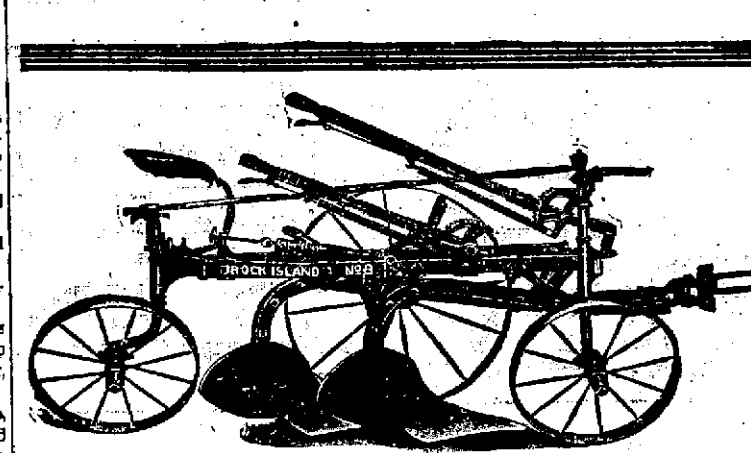

"Ain't it awful?"

History tells us that long ago—even before the birth of Christ—old Roman farmers were using Plows.

From generation to generation the plow was improved upon, and yet it was more than 2,000 years (A. D. 1908) before a real all-purpose plow was invented—one that does perfect work in any kind of soil, on any kind of land.

We now have this wonderful all-purpose plow here in our store and we invite you to come in and see it.

See the only plow that works equally well on Tame Sod, Stubble Land, Last Season's Corn Land, Heavy Clay Soil, Sandy Loam, Gumbo, or any other kind of soil.

The Rock Island (G.T.X.) UNIVERSAL Plow

This plow, which does the work of four ordinary plows, turns over each slice flat and smooth and no kinking. No air spaces between top and subsoil.

The top soil lies so flat on the subsoil that water, in dry weather, comes up from below, just like kerosene in a lamp comes up the wick.

Moreover, with this plow you can plow deep, if you choose.

Note also, how it pulverizes the soil. That enables you to get a perfect seed bed with less harrowing than you ever did before. And with soil well pulverized, you get full value out of your manure.

Curious as it may seem, the Rock Island UNIVERSAL Plow costs practically no more than plows which are but one-fourth as useful.

Come in, now, and see this Plow Sensation—the world's only all-purpose plow—the plow that thousands of farmers are buying this season—the plow that every progressive farmer in the country will buy ere long. Make it a point, the very next time you are in town, to visit our store and inspect the Rock Island Universal Plow.

Always glad to show this plow and price it to you whether you want to buy or not.

Does Prohibition Prohibit?

UNDER license the saloon is a responsible institution open to inspection and subject to control. Under prohibition the traffic in liquor is driven into secret places and is handled by irresponsible, lawless men, who sell to boys and adults without distinction. These places are open at all hours, and handle the vilest instead of the best brands of liquor. The police burden is increased. Court costs multiply as a result of the futile efforts to suppress these secret joints. Beer drinkers become whiskey drinkers and the net result is an increase in the evils of intemperance. The net loss to real estate owners and merchants would be enormous. Why exchange profits for losses, or trade benefits for burdens?

For People Who Think

Janesville seeks new factories and desires to increase its population. Why start by throwing over two hundred and fifty men now working out of employment and driving them away from Janesville to find work elsewhere by voting against license Tuesday.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

The question has been raised, do the retail liquor dealers take any part in civic affairs, in the upbuilding or uplift of the community they exist in? The following statements may answer arguments to the contrary by quoting actual facts that exist right here in Janesville that cannot be disputed.

Pay Share of City Taxes On Property

ASIDE FROM LICENSE FEE OF $500, RETAIL LIQUOR MEN PAY TAXES ON HOMES AND STOCK OF GOODS.

One of the assets of the city government is the $500 license fee received each year from the forty-two saloons of the city of Janesville and the three breweries, which reaches a grand total of $22,500. Aside from this the owners of the various establishments pay taxes on the stock of goods they own and also on their homes, for the majority of them have money invested in Janesville real estate, many owning the buildings they occupy. They also give employment to a hundred persons, the majority of whom are married and many own their own homes and also pay taxes. An important item when considered from the tax point of view.

Support Park Ass'n Stock Subscription

RETAIL LIQUOR MEN HAVE SUBSCRIBED OVER A QUARTER OF THE PRESENT ISSUE OF $20,000 FOR PARK ASSOCIATION.

Until recently Janesville had no driving park. Now it is on the map as having one of the best tracks in the country and horsemen from all parts of the middle west come here to train their horses and take part in the annual three day race meet. A Janesville Fair is also proposed for the present year. The capital stock is $20,000 and in round figures one-quarter of this sum, or $5,000, was subscribed by men in the retail liquor business. Counting stock subscribed by others allied with the same line of business the total figures go over six thousand dollars. Yet there are some who would drive these men out of business by voting the town dry.

Support the Cigar Industry of City

THERE ARE SEVEN CIGAR FACTORIES IN THE CITY EMPLOYING FORTY HANDS SUPPORTED BY LIQUOR DEALERS.

It may be surprising to note that among the allied trades that are dependent upon the retail liquor shops must be counted the seven local cigar factories employing forty skilled workmen with a pay roll that is in the neighborhood of $800 a week. The bulk of their product is wholesaled to the saloons and sold by them. Good home made smokes made under sanitary conditions and not by cheap foreign labor. If the saloons are closed these men will have to seek work elsewhere. As one said, "When Decatur, Illinois, went dry, there were seventy of us, all married men, who had to leave the city, and we want to stay in Janesville."

Liquor Men Helped Organize Company

OF THE JOHN C. NICHOLS' HARNESS CONCERN WHICH IS ONE OF THE CITY'S LARGEST ENTERPRISES.

One of Janesville's leading enterprises, employing forty-two workmen, the majority of them married men with families, was organized by money furnished by retail liquor dealers. Not only that, but at the present time, seven men in this line of business control the majority of the stock issued. This concern is growing rapidly, will increase its working force materially, and has a capital stock of fifty thousand dollars. It gives work the year through to its force of skilled workmen, and has a pay roll that reaches the total of $35,000 each year.

PLAIN FACTS

JANESVILLE WITH ITS FORTY-TWO SALOONS, PAYING LICENSES OF $22,500 IN TOTAL, REFUTES THE FACT THAT THE SALOON INCREASES THE TAX LEVY. JANESVILLE PAYS AT THE RATE OF $15.44 PER $1,000, WHILE THE MAJORITY OF WISCONSIN CITIES PAY OVER $20.00 PER THOUSAND AND SOME EVEN AS HIGH AS $32.00.

TAKE AWAY THE MONEY RECEIVED FROM SALOON LICENSES, THE MONEY PAID IN OTHER TAXES ON PROPERTY OWNED BY THE RETAIL LIQUOR DEALERS AND THE DEFICIT IS LARGE AND MUST BE MADE UP BY RAISING THE TAX LEVY ON THE REST OF THE TAX PAYERS. THIS FOLLOWS WITHOUT ARGUMENT.

IT IS A WELL KNOWN FACT THAT PROHIBITION DOES NOT PROHIBIT. THIS IS PROVEN BY THE FACT THAT IN ROCKFORD, THE ONE CITY QUOTED AS BENEFITED BY NO LICENSE MORE LIQUOR IS SOLD BY THE WHOLESALERS THAN WAS FORMERLY SOLD TO THE RETAIL LIQUOR SHOPS WHEN THEY WERE LICENSED AND THE CITY RECEIVED THE MONEY FOR PERMITTING THE TRADE.

THE ARGUMENT IS RAISED THAT OF COURSE CONDITIONS WOULD BE DISTURBED FOR

A TIME BUT MATTERS WOULD ADJUST THEMSELVES. ROCKFORD HAS BEEN DRY FOR TWO YEARS BUT TODAY THERE ARE MORE ILLEGAL LIQUOR SHOPS IN EXISTENCE, MORE SO-CALLED "CLUBS" THAN THERE WERE SALOONS WHEN THEY WERE LICENSED. IT IS EASY FOR THE INITIATED TO GET ALL HE WANTS TO DRINK IN "DRY ROCKFORD" AND THE POLICE BLOTTERS MONDAY MORNINGS SHOW THE RESULTS OF THIS PRACTICE BY THE TWENTY-THREE CASES OF DRUNKS, DISORDERLIES AND EVEN WOULD BE MURDERERS, WHICH THE ROCKFORD REGISTER-GAZETTE SAYS "WAS ONLY PART OF THE ACTUAL CASES BUT THE POLICE DEPARTMENT DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH MEN ON DUTY TO ANSWER ALL CALLS."

DO YOU WANT THESE CONDITIONS IN JANESVILLE? TAXES INCREASED? EXODUS OF WORKMEN TO SOME OTHER CITY TO FIND EMPLOYMENT? VACANT STORES, TO BE RENTED AT LOWER FIGURES THAN NOW ARE PAID BY THE SALOONS, THIS MEANS LOSS TO THE PROPERTY OWNER AND DEPRECIATION OF PROPERTY VALUES THROUGHOUT THE CITY? IF NOT, VOTE TOMORROW IN FAVOR OF LICENSE. THE QUESTION READS AS FOLLOWS:

On Tuesday Next the Voters of Janesville Are Asked to Vote On the Question "Whether Or Not Any Person Shall Be Licensed To Deal In Or Traffic In Any Spirituous, Malt Or Intoxicating Liquor Drinks Or Beverages."

FOR LICENSE

This Will Be the Form of the Ballot and We Suggest That You Mark It As Shown Here.

AGAINST LICENSE

Remember who pays the taxes when you vote tomorrow. Mark X for license.
